was the heaviest and largest seed of the World – the seed of Double coconut, commonly known as coco- de- mer. The seed is a rare collection and only a very few institutions in India have this seed as a collection. It being an endangered species and a costly seed that fetches up to 2000 euros in the international market, there was huge crowd of visitors to the museum where the seed was exhibited. There was also a collection of indigenous and exotic fruits and vegetables. The students of botany were posted in every exhibition point to explain about the exhibits and to clarify the doubts of the visitors. There were nearly six thousand visitors on every day. The faculty members, non teaching staff and students wholeheartedly contributed to make this exhibition a great success.

Talks and training on various topics were also arranged in connection with the exhibition. Dr. Suresh V, Assistant Professor, Dept. of Botany, Govt.
